

CFEE SEMINAR

*“At a Distance:
From K-12 to Workforce Development,
Challenges of the Virtual World”*

Wednesday, April 22nd

11:00am - 12:15pm

Distinguished guest speakers:

- Jorge Aguilar, Superintendent, Sacramento City Unified School District
- Dick Zampa, Jr., Director of Apprenticeship for California, Nevada, and Arizona, Ironworkers
- Walter Hughes, State Director, Government Affairs, Comcast

AGENDA

With physical distancing remaining a primary defense in the fight against COVID-19, businesses, organizations, and schools are rapidly transitioning to online communication to continue their work. This Seminar will examine the role of Internet providers and how other organizations are developing instructional innovations to ensure our workforce and students can succeed in this new virtual space.

- How is the state supporting school districts as they deploy computers and broadband connectivity to all of their students?
- How are organizations embracing distance learning to connect and educate their workforce?
- How are communications companies using this opportunity to narrow the Digital Divide?
- Can interim expansions of Internet access be made permanent, and what can the state do to support this expansion?
